COINCIDENT DEATHS OF PLAY-MATES. From the Portland (Me.) Press, March 10

We are informed by a gentleman of the following peculiar circumstance which has taken place on Munjoy Hill in this ity within the week just passed Three boys, living as above, ranging in age from 2 to 1 years, have been bosom friends and companions, playing in a party by themselves, and each striving to please the others in every way. Dur ing the fore part of last week one of their number died suddenly with eroup, and his death, as may be imagined, was sadly felt by the remaining two. At the funeral they both, with their parents, occupied prominent places among the circle of mourners, showing every symptom of deep grief at the loss of their playmate. All at once they began to cry violently, and, on being questioned, gave a somewhat hidierous answer, saying they "wanted a casket same as has got." A few days after their friend's burial one of the two boys sickened and died with the same terrible disease, and at the present time the Last of the three friends hes dangerous ly ill from the same cause

Why not ! The South furnishes the numbers that make the Democratic majority in Congress. Before the Southern Democrats re-entered Congress the opposition to the Republicans was without either numbers or respectability. It was flown in the dust and despised, for it chiefly represented what was known and loathed in the North during the War as the Copperboad element, true to neither side. If the majority should rule- and that is the theory of political parties as well as Republican government - why should not the South take the hon's share of good things on the official table? The Southern members are not in Congress on probation. They stand as the equals of their Northern brethren, and if about $12,000,000,000. President's Message to be Sent in To-day.

The Work of Death.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18.-The Democratic leaders are congratulating themselves that the action of the House Demogratic canena last night, was entirely harmonious, and that no bolt occurred The few Democrats who said they would not vote for Randall under any circumstances lumbly submitted to the action of the caucus without uttering a word of protest. The nomination of Randall was fully foreshadowed in these dispatches a few days ago, and the votes cast for Blackburn were two more than were indicated by your corspondent yesterday.

The present feeling of the leaders of both parties is decidedly in favor of a short session. The Democrats, however, talk as though they held the helm, and that the President intends to back down on the question of not giving his approval to the repeal of the Election laws if incorporated in an appropriation bill. The Republicans are firm, and say that there will be no compromise on this point. It is, therefore, probable that the session will be protracted, not withstanding the wishes of the leaderof both parties.

There was an immenso concourse of people attracted to the Camtol building to day to witness the opening of the Forty sixth Congress -many more than could be accommodated in the spacious gallenes.

IN THE SENATE.

The Senate was called to order by the Vice-President. After prayer, the President's proclamation was read, and then the roll was called, and the new Senators and those who were re elected were sworn in. The iron clad oath was first administered to those who could take it, and then the modified eath for those who were rebels during the war-

After all the Senators had been sworn in, the Vice President submitted the eredentials of Charles H. Bell, of New Hampshire. Mr. Wallace said that the question of his admission involved grave questions of law, and he would move that the credentials lie upon the table until to morrow Mr. Rollins appealed to Mr. Wallace to withdraw his motion until he could make a brief statement to the Senate, which being acceded to Mr. Rollins read a brief paper, showing how many Senators had been admitted to the Senate holding similar eredentials to Mr Bell's Mr Wallace's motion was then adopted by a strict party vote

The Senate then took a recess until Lo'chek

At noon the Clerk called the House to order, and read the proclamation of the President convening Congress in extra session. Then commenced the calling of the roll. The only New Eng. land member who did not respond to his name was Mr Morse, of Massachu

ALTON, ILL., March 18 .- Mr. Charles W. Holliday, Deputy Postmaster of Alton, met with a sudden and terrible leath, on the track of the Chicago and Alton Railroad, by being struck with an engine in the cut north of Ninth street. The deceased, on his way home about 8 o'clock, passed through the cut, on which there were three or four parallel tracks There were three engines in the cut, two of which were facing in the direction deceased approached, consequently, as is supposed, the glare of the headlights prevented his seeing the third locomotive, which was backing down, and in avoiding the engine on one track, he was struck by the other. His death must have been instantane ous. An imprest was held this morn ing and a verdict rendered in accord ance with the above facts, and exonora ting the railroad from blame Mr Hol liday had been connected with the Alton Post Office since 1856, and for the greater part of that time acted in the capacity of Deputy Postmister New York, March 18 -James R.

GETTING BACK TO OLD MOORINGS.

Reports from Michigan are to the ffect that Greenbackism is fast dying out in that State. The village elections show very general victories for Republicans. In New Jersey, the coun ty and town elections are also very flattering. In only one county, that of Burlington, is there a Republican loss In Sussex county, the latherto Demo cratic unjority is wiped out, and the Republicans have carried the Board of Freeholders, equivalent to our Board of Supervisors, by a majority of six. In ers, which last year stood fourteen Democrats to eight Republicans, is now nine Republicans to eight Democrats Morris county clerts as Freeholder eight Republicans, sex Democrats, and one Greenbacker.

The long looked for and long expected concert, under the management of the Young Ladies' Reform Club, will come off at the Tabernacie to morrow night, when Mile. Litta (Marie Von Elaner,) who once made Decatur her home, will appear in three numbers. In an incredibly brief period of time she has earned a reputation that is second to none in musical circles, and her appearance here will be an event that will draw out the largest paying audlence ever gathered in the tabernacle. PROP. RICHARDS' LECTURE. - There vas a large audience at the tabernacie last evening to hear Prof. Richards' lecture on ballooning. The lecture was highly entertaining, but the boss feeture will come off to-night and will show up the freaks of electricity.

The Y. M. C.A. is entitled to the thanks of the community for having brought to our city so pleasant and competent a lecturer as is Professor Richards. The two lectures already given have afforded great satisfaction to all who have attended, and that to be given this evening will be the best of the three.

The popular and attractive character of the lecture, together with the low price of admission should draw a crowded house.

An Interioro Superior.-On Tuesday evening quite a respectable number of the friends and acquaintances of Mr and Mrs. Frank Bear, who reside near Bearsdule, collected at their residence .-Although the forepart of the evening was stormy and disagreeable and detained a few of the invited at home, yet at an early hour the rooms were comfortably filled by the pleasure-seekers, who pleasantly pasaed the time away with the general amuse, ments of a play party until the hour of departure. Refreshments were served at a seasonable hour, and reflected great credit on the young ladies who prepared them. The party was intended to be a surprise, but as coming events cast their shadows before, the shadow arrived about three hours in advance of the company.

OVERLOADED,-An unfortunate man from Warrensburg, by the name of Sweeney, got too full for successful navigation in one of the bounding houses on the levee last night. A Reminiscence of Early Illinois

Alton Telegraph of Saturday

Mrs. Anna Hamilton, who died at the family residence on Wood River, four miles east of Upper Alton, Thursday, the 13th mat, was the youngest daughter of the late Abel Moore, two of whose children were killed by the Indians, at the Wood River massacre, on the 10th of July, 1814, about eight years before the subject of this notice was born. The massacre took place about five miles from this city, and was of brutal atrocity. A Mrs Reagan, an aunt of Mr Robert Reagan, a fisherman of this city, accompanied by four children—two of her own, and two of those of her brother, Abel Moore-while re turning home, just after dusk, from her brother's residence, were attacked by a roving band of Indians, and the entire party massacred, scalped and horribly mangled. The bodies were found early on the following morning All were dead except Mrs. Reagan's youngest child, which was setting near the corpse of its mother, with a deep gash on each side of its face. It hved but a short time after being found. The Indians were pursued by Capt. Samuel White-side with his mounted rangers. One of the Indians, who was supposed to have been the leader in the attack and had in his possession the scalp of Mrs. Reagan, was overtaken in Sangamon county and killed while hiding in a tree top, by a ball from the uncrring rifle of one of the Prutts The remainder of the науадеч евсаред
